

October 8, 1949.

Dr. T. R. Hogness,
Director,
Institute of Radiobiology & Biophysics,
University of Chicago,
Chicago 37, Illinois.

Dear Dr. Hogness:

The title mentioned in your letter will do nicely, although I hope to be forgiven if I stray a little from the indicated subject.

I expect to arrive in Chicago Thursday evening, November 3; I have already made arrangements through Dr. Novick for accommodations. If I contact you at the Institute, Friday morning, there should be sufficient time to make any last minute arrangements. I expect to have 3 x 4 lantern slides, if a projector is conveniently available.

Sincerely,

Joshua Lederberg